In pursuance of the above proceedings a [illegible]utation waited upon Captain Bull, on the [illegible]d September instant, and presented the [illegible]owing Address to him—

Newcastle, September 20, 1852.

Address of the inhabitants of the city of Newcastle, to Captain John Edward N. Bull, J.P., late 99th regiment, on resigning his appointment at that place, and his departure for Victoria.

SIR,—With feelings of regret we understand that you are just on the eve of your departure from amongst us, and though that departure is in consequence of promotion, yet we cannot allow it to take place without expressing our sense of the friendly and neighbourly manner in which you have lived among us, as well as the advantages which your judicious arrangements with respect to the public works have been to this city.

We beg to tender you our best wishes for your prosperity and happiness, and assure you that accounts of your welfare and success will be highly gratifying to us.

In consequence of a resolution to that effect, we have much pleasure in informing you that a piece of plate will be presented to you in token of our herein expressed feelings.

We are, Sir, yours, faithfully,
(Here follow the signatures.)

Newcastle, September 23, 1852.

GENTLEMEN,—It is very gratifying to me on the eve of my departure from amongst you to receive your address, expressive of your kind feelings towards me as a friend and neighbour, and your approbation of my conduct in the discharge of my public duty.

I have experienced the greatest civility and kindness from all classes in Newcastle during my abode in it, and consequently I leave it with much regret; but I do so I trust for the benefit of my family.

It only remains, therefore, for me to thank you for all your past kindness and good wishes towards me, as well as for the mark of esteem with which it is your intention to present me; I shall thankfully receive, and hand it down to may family with pride and satisfaction. Wishing you all health and prosperity, and that the public works, in the construction of which I have taken so much interest, may prove a lasting benefit to the city and district.

And believe me, Gentlemen, I shall ever feel a sincere and earnest desire for your future welfare, and treasure in my memory the days I have spent amongst you.

PROSPECTUS.

THREE months ago a company was formed in Sydney for the purpose, amongst others, of purchasing and working a Rich Quartz Vein discovered in the neighbourhood of the Lower Turon. Arrangements were at once made for dispatching competent persons to ascertain and report on the richness of the claim. These reports were sufficiently satisfactory to induce the Provisional Committee to conclude on their own responsibility the negociation then on foot with the original claimants, and the vein became duly transferred to, and is now held by, trustees on behalf of this Company, which was originally composed of a few individuals, under the impression that a limited capital would be sufficient to work the mine. A Deed of Settlement, as prepared by the Solicitors of the Company, was submitted to a general meeting of the Shareholders, adopted and signed, appointing the above-named gentlemen first Directors of the Company.

It is unnecessary to enter into detail respecting the subsequent acts of the directors. Suffice it to say that every week has added to the evidence they possessed of the amazing richness of this mine. Portions of the quartz, selected indiscriminately from the ridge, having been forwarded to Sydney and tested by practical assayers, have yielded gold to an extent which has not only startled the Directors, but which, if published, would scarcely be credited.

Independently of the facts brought under the directors' notice by their own experiments, disinterested parties have spoken of this Claim in the highest terms, and the Assistant Gold Commissioner gives his opinion of its value in the strongest language, in his original report on the subject to the Chief Gold Commissioner.

In the early part of last month, the directors were fortunate enough to secure the services of a gentleman lately arrived from Mexico, where he had been engaged for many years in mining pursuits, with whom they entered into an arrangement to proceed to the Turon, survey and report on the auriferous Quartz Vein on the Company's Claim, and the best mode of working the same. This gentleman has returned to town, and his report fully confirms previous statements. He excavated nine feet, and quarried out a block of quartz so large that it cannot, in the present state of the roads, be conveyed to Sydney, bearing indications of gold as rich as previous samples, which yielded at the rate of £1400 sterling per ton. The character of the quartz upon this claim is of the best description, being thoroughly impregnated with gold, and so equally distributed as to be perceptible to the naked eye on all sides, but when brought under the influence of a powerful lens, it is found to pervade the whole mass. From the report of this gentleman and informaton obtained at frequent interviews, the Directors have satisfied themselves the present capital of the Company is not sufficient for the proper working of this mine; and as they have been frequently applied to for shares, which they could not supply, a meeting of the Company was held at the Royal Hotel on Thursday, the 23rd instant.

When it was resolved—

"To increase the capital of the Company to 40,000 shares of 20s. each, and to offer 20,000 shares to the public for sale; such offer only to remain open one month, at the expiration of which the shares unapplied for to be appropriated as the Directors may decide."

In accordance with the above resolution, the public are invited to apply for any portion of the 20,000 shares now offered for sale.

The declared objects of the Company are—
To extract gold from quartz veins,
To work alluvial soil,
To purchase gold.

Towards the first of these objects they possess the rich vein already alluded to, and have the first claim to two others adjoining, making in all one mile and a half of quartz.

The second of these objects is not engaging their attention at present.

The third object they are already acting upon, so that the capital of the Company may never be unproductive.

Application is being made to the Legislative Council for an Act to limit the liability of the shareholders.

It will be seen by the above that the Directors are quite alive to the importance of employing the capital of the Company, at the same time fully resolved to expend it judiciously and economically. Further particulars may be ascertained from any of the Directors, and parties desirous of obtaining shares are requested to make early application: they will be required to pay a deposit of 5s. per share as soon as the shares are allotted, and the balance whenever the calls are made.

The Deed of Settlement lies at the office of the Solicitors to the Company, where it may be inspected.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES to be addressed to the office of Samuel Hebblewhite, Esq., Hon. Sec., next door to the Town Hall, York-street.

To the Board of Directors of the Turon Golden Ridge Quartz Crushing Company.

Gentlemen,—I request you to allot me shares of £1 each in the above Company, and I hereby agree to accept the said shares, or any less number you may allot to me, and to pay the first instalment thereon, viz., five shillings per share, at the time specified in your letter of allotment.

The Melbourne Packet has changed hands, having been purchased by Messrs. E. M. Sayers and Co. Mr. M'Lean, formerly chief officer of the H. S. Page, has the appointment, as master.

Custom House.—Entered Outwards: September 25. Arabia, barque, 443 tons, Davis, for Hongkong via Manila; Eliza, schooner, 98 tons, Young, for Melbourne.

Captain Warner having been appointed to one of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company's steamers, in the Port Phillip trade, the command of the Eagle steamer has been given to Captain Allen, so long and well known in the Moreton Bay traffic. Captain Freyer, of the Waratah, has resigned the Company's service.

The Ayrshire Lass, originally from Honolulu called at Tahiti, having sailed from thence on the 21st August; an English war steamer on discovery had touched there, and sailed for Valparaiso. A sloop of war had also left for England, having been on shore and ripped her copper. A vessel had been despatched by the Admiral for the purpose of reporting on the most eligible Island where a station might be formed as a coaling depôt on the line from Panama to Sydney—it was expected the Houheine (Society Island) would be fixed on as the most convenient. The following vessels were in the port of Papeete: the French Corvettes Moselle and Artemese, and also a French war steamer (name unknown); the brigs Hudson, Cheerful and Adele, barque Alexandre, and schooners Harriet and Velasco.

Another Feature in the Chinese Trade.—We noticed a few days since that the British ship of war Thetis arrived at this port, bringing spars from Vancouver's Island, for the use of the British Navy. A gentleman arrived on the same ship and remained at San Francisco to charter vessels to proceed to Vancouver's Island and load with spars for the same purpose. It appears that quite an important trade is springing up in ship timber, both in Oregon and further north, which is destined at no distant day to constitute a prominent feature in the commerce of the Pacific. There is a steady demand for spars and the like in the five Chinese ports now open to foreigners, and the large possessions of the British Government in India and Australia require immense quantities of timber to supply their ship yards and furnish materials for keeping up a sound commercial marine. This timber has heretofore been furnished from New Zealand and Canada, and large quantities from the State of Maine. But it appears that the Oregon timber is the finest in the world while it is more easily procured and convenient to the ports requiring it, than that of other places named. Even the Chinese will not be long in finding this out, and who knows but thousands of Chinese junks will hereafter be manufactured from timber procured in Oregon? A friend who has resided in China for ten or fifteen years, and who keeps up a correspondence with the leading commercial houses in Shanghai and Canton, informs us that already the timber trade is attracting attention in that quarter. On the 15th April last, a British barque landed at Shanghai with a full cargo of Oregon spars—returning, she brought 300 passengers to San Francisco, and proceeded to Oregon again, to load to China with timber. The ship Great Britain cleared from Hongkong in April, direct for Oregon, to load back with the same freight. Other vessels were contemplating the propriety of embarking in the Oregon timber trade.—San Francisco Herald.

Watkins and Dean beg to remind buyers at auction, that they sell, this day, at the old Queen's Wharf, at half-past 10 o'clock, a cargo of Van Diemen's Land Potatoes; at 12 o'clock, at their rooms, a house in William-street, Woolloomooloo.

Tobacco.—A small parcel of Barrett's twist will be sold by Mr. George A. Lloyd, at Campbell's Bonded Stores This Morning, at 11 o'clock.

"Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I."

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

When Francis Thomas Green, who was executed on Tuesday last for the murder of John Jones, was asked, after the verdict of guilty was found by the Jury by whom he was tried, what he had to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon him according to law, he replied that he was "innocent in thought word, and deed, of this murder; and if he was executed for it he should only add another to the list of persons already found guilty (erroneously) upon circumstantial evidence."

The evidence against Green was altogether presumptive. A chain of circumstances was produced at the trial which could not fail to convince the Jury of his guilt. The identity of the body of Jones was proved beyond doubt; his peculiar head of curly hair, and his large mustache, his short stature, and square build, his long white stockings and carpet slippers (being an unusual appendage to a digger's dress), his new moleskin trousers and Panama hat, a valueless receipt given to him some months before, found near his corpse, and a comb given to him by Mrs. Wheeler a few days previously to the commission of the murder, irresistibly established the identity of the body found at Buckley's Creek as that of John Jones, the prisoner's former partner. To connect the prisoner with the murder it was shown at the trial that the prisoner had pistols and balls, and that the ball extracted from Jones' head corresponded in size with those which the prisoner had in his possession when he arrived in Sydney. Jones was murdered on the 10th of March, and Green was seen close to the spot where the murdered man was found on the afternoon of that day, whilst the same evening he called at Mrs. Jendon's, eight miles further on towards Tambaroura for some things he had left there, and for which he gave Mrs. Jendon a receipt; at the same time and on part of the same paper, and with the same pen and ink, he wrote an order in Jones's name, dated two days after, to a publican in Bathurst, by which it appeared that the balance in the publican's hands was to be paid over to Green, and which draft was duly honoured. It was shown that he knew of the receipt found near the body being valueless. It was proved that on different occasions Green had spoken of Jones in such terms as to convey the impression of threats and malice towards Jones to his hearers. He told Keit after the murder that he had had a quarrel with Jones, that they had parted, and that Jones had gone to Port Phillip. His departure from Bathurst for Sydney was so arranged as to prevent pursuit, and his instructions to the boy Jeffries, who accompanied him, to call him Mr. Frank or Mr. Guy (the latter name being on the dray), were evidently intended to prevent his identity on the road in case of Jones's body being discovered and search being made for the murderer. And when Green arrived in Sydney his conduct was not only pregnant with suspicion, but surrounded by falsehood. His statement to the witness Johnson that Jones was on his way to Sydney, afterwards that he had heard that he was in Sydney, and lastly that he had seen him there; that his face was swelled from fighting, and that that was his reason for not calling upon Johnson, were as false as his representations in Sydney to a second witness that Jones had gone to Port Phillip, to a third that he had left Jones at the diggings, and to a fourth that Jones was well, but that she (the witness) was to think no more of him, as he was a married man. His sending the boy Jeffries to Penrith under the pretext of meeting Jones was apparently an excuse to get rid of the lad whilst he made his escape from the metropolis. And, lastly, his motives in murdering Jones were apparent. He obtained from the publican at Bathurst money deposited with him by Jones; he obtained possession of two kegs of spirits at Bathurst, which he afterwards sold in Sydney; and he disposed of Jones's horses and drays, alleging, as an excuse to the auctioneer for a speedy settlement of accounts, that he was about to sail immediately for Port Phillip,—though, as it afterwards appeared (though no evidence was given of the fact at the trial), he turned his attention to the diggings at Major's Creek, and was subsequently apprehended at Braidwood by an ingenious stratagem of the police, to whom and to the Police Magistrate of Sydney, from the way in which the evidence was collected, and the apprehension of the prisoner was accomplished, very great credit is due.

In cases in which the evidence is circumstantial only, and in the large majority of cases of murder it is entirely so, judges are in the habit of telling juries that they must not only be satisfied that the circumstances proved point exclusively to the guilt of the prisoner, but that the circumstances are inconsistent with the guilt of any other person. In Green's case, the evidence, though entirely presumptive, was so consistent, applicable, and overwhelming and dovetailed in so completely, that it was impossible for the jury to arrive at any other conclusion than that he was the murderer of Jones.

Pending the time between his trial and execution, we are informed that Green addressed a letter to the Judge who tried him, in which he charged two men, (not forthcoming) whom he said left Bathurst with him and Jones, with the murder. His Honor investigated the statement, and found that it was false—a statement probably put forth to get a commutation of sentence. Finding that he could not succeed in his object, he then urged that the leniency of the Crown ought to be extended to him, on the ground that no prisoner ought to suffer death for murder, if convicted on circumstantial evidence alone. When he found there was not any chance of the capital punishment being averted, Green confessed to being the murderer of Jones, and through his spiritual adviser acknowledged on the scaffold the justice of his sentence, and that he was prepared to expiate his crime according to the laws of this country.

If a murderer could only be convicted on direct or positive testimony, very few prisoners so charged would be found guilty. Very few murders are perpetrated in the sight of witnesses,—the murderer usually kills his victim in such a spot and under such circumstances as to render detection difficult. Another kind of evidence must therefore be substituted termed presumptive or circumstantial. "The chief danger to be avoided when dealing with presumptive evidence arises from a proneness natural to the human mind to jump to conclusions from facts without duly adverting to others inconsistent with the hypothesis which those facts seem to indicate." No doubt this axiom is true, but then steps in trial by jury, and the very fact of twelve intelligent jurors having to decide on the weight or value of each individual circumstance is a sufficient safeguard to ensure justice and protection to the accused. "Not to speak," says Mr. Bentham, "of greater numbers, even two articles of circumstantial evidence, though each taken by itself weighs but as a feather—join them together, you will find them pressing on the delinquent with the weight of a millstone."

It is a vulgar error with a certain class that a conviction for murder on circumstantial evidence alone should never be punished with death. Green was, or pretended to be, of this opinion. The chain of facts against him was so irresistible that it was impossible to apply the same circumstances to any other person. When all hope of his life being saved was abandoned, he admitted that he was the murderer of Jones, though he had so pertinaciously protested after conviction that he was innocent. And in this instance, the public must be now satisfied of the value of circumstantial evidence.

The very decided advantages of presumptive evidence over the positive testimony of a limited number of witnesses are clearly stated by Mr. Bentham in these words:—"First, by including in its composition a portion of circumstantial evidence, the aggregate mass on either side is, if mendacious, the more exposed to be disproved. Every false allegation being liable to be disproved by any such notoriously true fact as it is incompatible with,—the greater the number of such distinct false facts, the more the aggregate mass of them is exposed to be disproved; for it is the property of a mass of circumstantial evidence, in proportion to the extent of it, to bring a more and more extensive assemblage of facts under the cognizance of the Judge. Secondly, of that additional mass of facts thus apt to be brought upon the carpet by circumstantial evidence, parts more or less considerable in number will have been brought forward by so many different deposing witnesses. But the greater the number of deposing witnesses, the more seldom will it happen that any such concert, and that a successful one, has been produced, as is necessary to give effect to a plan of mendacious testimony, in the execution of which, in the character of deposing witnesses, divers individuals are concerned." So that as has been observed by a learned author on this subject, "a conclusion of guilt, deduced from a process of well-conducted reasoning upon evidence purely presumptive, may be quite as convincing, and in some cases infinitely more so, than one arising from direct testimony."

COUNCIL PAPER.

MERCANTILE INTERESTS.

Memorial of the Chamber of Commerce to His Excellency, relating to the mercantile and maritime interests of the colony.

To His Excellency Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy, Knight Companion of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, Governor-General of all her Majesty's Australian Possessions, and Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

The Memorial of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce

Respectfully Sheweth,

That the serious difficulties affecting the Mercantile Maritime interests of this colony in reference to cases of desertion and insubordination among the crews of nearly every vessel (without distinction of flag) arriving at this port, have assumed a most alarming character, inflicting most ruinous losses on those ship owners whose vessels are trading here, as well as on all other mercantile and maritime interests throughout the colony.

That the laws relating to seamen in the merchant service, especially as at present administered in this port, are ineffectual in affording relief.

That deserters from the shipping are rarely apprehended until after the departure of the vessels to which they belong, and have been invariably discharged in every such instance without punishment, although they have pleaded guilty of desertion.

That in the disposal of cases brought before the Water Police Court more effect has been given to technicalities than to substantial merits; that litigation has been encouraged by this attention to quibbles, as also by the too frequent practice of postponing decisions and delivering reserved judgments.

That insubordination among sailors throughout all the shipping in the port, has been fomented and increased, and seamen have been induced to disregard their contracts, and leave their ships, by an erroneous judgment of the Water Police Magistrate in reference to Ships' Articles, alleged to be void for uncertainty; the consequences of which have entailed serious losses, and prevented several ships with valuable cargoes from proceeding to sea to the present time.

That proceedings have been conducted in the Water Police Court in a manner calculated to destroy all confidence in the law as there administered.

That your Memorialists have had under their consideration a Bill proposed to be introduced during the last session of the Legislative Council, for improving the condition of Masters, Mates, and Seamen, and maintaining discipline in the merchant service of the colony of New South Wales, and for consolidating the laws relating thereto, and beg respectfully to offer the following suggestions as a means whereby the evils referred to may be remedied.

That the gentleman holding the office of Water Police Magistrate should be well acquainted with the general matters arising out of maritime pursuits, and more especially with the habits and management of seamen, as without these qualifications he is never likely to command the respect of either masters or sailors; and unless the laws be administered by a person who does command such respect from all with whom, in his official capacity, he has to deal, the department will never prove efficient.

That the business of the department be confined to maritime cases.

That the Water Police Magistrate and some of the Executive Officers under him should always be in readiness to attend to matters of emergency, which are continually occurring in reference to shipping cases; that it is highly desirable, if not indispensable, that the Water Police Magistrate and his clerk should reside in some part of Sydney contiguous to the Water Police Office, and that constables should at all times be in readiness at that office, to execute warrants and discharge all duties requiring immediate attention.

That the control of the Water Police should be vested in the Water Police Magistrate.

That a Shipping Master and Office be established, as in England, under the Mercantile Marine Act.

That register tickets, containing the personal description of seamen, be granted by the Shipping Master, and that no seaman be allowed to ship without a legal discharge and a registry ticket.

That no sailors be permitted to be on shore after sunset without a legal discharge, or a pass, to be on a printed form, with personal description, issued from the Shipping Master's Office, and countersigned by the master or commanding officer of the ship to which he belongs.

That any sailor on shore without such pass be subject to a penalty.

That all vessels, coasters and others, be searched.

That the Water Police boats row guard all night.

That a watch be kept on board all vessels, under penalty.

That the punishment for desertion be not less than thirty days nor exceeding six months, with hard labour, also solitary confinement during part of such period.

That the list of crew and registry tickets of all vessels, coasters and others, be delivered at the Shipping Office before reporting inwards.

That the Shipping Master be require[d to] prosecute all cases of desertion where the [part]ies are apprehended after the departu[re of] their vessels; that all unnecessary form[s be] dispensed with, and the punishment be do[uble] if the parties are apprehended afte[r the] departure of their vessels.

That parties inciting men to desert, or [har]bouring deserters, be fined twenty pou[nds] (£20) and imprisoned not less than sixty [days] nor exceeding six months, with hard lab[our,] also solitary confinement during part of [such] period.

That the names and descriptions of all [de]serters be made public by lists placed [in] conspicuous places at the Shipping Office [and] the several Police Offices throughout [the] colony.

That the warrants for the apprehensio[n of] deserters contain the description of the ma[n as] on the register tickets.

That the register tickets be forfeited by [de]sertion.

That upon affidavit before a magistrate, t[hat] reasonable suspicion exists that deserters [are] concealed in a house, constables be empowe[red] by warrant of the magistrate to enter an[d] search.

That your memorialists beg respectfully [to] suggest, that the proposed Act be abridged a[s] much as practicable; that the jurisdiction o[f] the Admiralty Court be so modified as to pre[vent] vexatious litigation; that the circum[stances] of the colony do not render it expe[dient] to establish Local Marine Boards; and that the clauses in the proposed Act referring to Marine Boards, examinations, apprentices, shipping officers, sailors' homes, official log books, and other objectionable clauses in detail, which it is unnecessary to embody in this Memorial, be expunged from the proposed Bill.

And your memorialists will ever pray.

J. WALKER, Dep. Chairman.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—Saturday.

Nisi Prius Sittings.

Before Mr. Justice Dickinson, and a Jury of four.

ALLISON v. COLE.

This was an action for a balance of account for building. The declaration was long and special. It first set out a contract between plaintiff and defendant, whereby the former agreed to complete, within a given period, the erection of four houses in Fort-street. It then went on to allege that plaintiff had partially executed this work, and was ready and willing to complete the remainder within the specified time, when he was prevented by defendant, who, by his own act, terminated the contract, and released plaintiff from the obligations which it imposed upon him. It next proceeded to aver a subsequent performance by plaintiff of the work contracted for, with various alterations and additions to the same, made by defendant's order, and an agreement between the parties to abide by the valuation of one Henry Robertson. By this gentleman the value was fixed at £1164 6s. 4d. Credit was given for payments amounting to £850, and the balance, £314 6s. 4d., was the amount sued for. Besides this sum, however, plaintiff claimed £113 5s. 1d. for other work—buildings in the rear of the Fort-street houses. The defendant pleaded that he had not hindered the plaintiff from completing the work, nor had he terminated the contract as alleged in the declaration. It was upon this plea that the material issue was raised. The declaration contained, likewise, the usual money counts for money had and received, and an account stated, &c., which were met by the usual pleas of denial and of payment.

Counsel for plaintiff, the Solicitor-General and Mr. Broadhurst; attorneys, Messrs. Gurner and Tompson; counsel for defendant, Messrs. Foster and Darvall; attorney, Mr. Shuttleworth.

The substantial question in dispute appeared to be whether or not plaintiff was entitled under this form of action to recover the £113 5s. 1d. as well as the £314 6s. 4d. After the case had been proceeded with until the afternoon was considerably advanced, it was finally arranged that a verdict should be taken by consent for both these sums, leaving the question of law for the after decision of the Supreme Court.

The court adjourned until ten o'clock this morning.

Notice to Jurors.—Those gentlemen who were summoned on the last panel have been ordered to attend this morning. As the number of gentlemen who have appeared in answer to the summons is barely sufficient for the business of the Court, those who do not answer to the call must not be surprised if they find that, in consequence of their absence, the business has passed over for a day, and themselves have been subjected to a heavy fine.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

INSOLVENT COURT.

MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

September.—Monday 27. James Sinclair, a special meeting for proof of claims, at 10. Alexander Waddell, an adjourned special meeting for examination, at 11.

Thursday, 30.—Frederick Robert D'Arcy, an adjourned special meeting, at 10. John Griffin, a single meeting, at 11. William Bestwick, a certificate meeting, and James Roberts, an adjourned certificate meeting, at noon.

October.—Tuesday, 5.—John Henry Young, a third meeting, at 11. James Lucas, a single meeting, at half-past 11.

Thursday, 21.—Alexander Waddell, a certificate meeting, at noon.

Thursday, 28.—George Cathcart Hayes, a certificate meeting, at noon.

ABSTRACT OF SALES BY AUCTION THIS DAY.

MESSRS. WATKINS AND DEAN.—At the Old Queen's Wharf, at half past 10 o'clock, Potatoes; at their Mart, at 12 o'clock, a Cottage at Woolloomooloo.

MR. G. A. LLOYD.—At Campbell's Bonded Warehouse, at 11 o'clock, Tobacco.

MR. C. NEWTON.—At his Rooms, at 12 o'clock, Brandy, Rum, Gin, Whiskey, Sherry, Castor Oil, &c.

PURKIS AND LAMBERT.—At their Mart, at 11 o'clock, Boots and Shoes, Ironmongery, Cutlery, &c.; at 12 o'clock, Drapery.

MR. H. D. COCKBURN.—At his Rooms, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture, Clocks, Watches, Guns, Pistols, &c.

MR. J. G. COHEN.—At his Rooms, at 11 o'clock, Surplus Stores and Groceries.

MR. A. MOORE.—At the Labour Bazaar, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture, Horse, Dray, Harness, Brandy, Cider, &c.

MR. H. A. GRAVES.—At Mr. John Hart's, Clarence-street, at half-past 10 o'clock, Furniture, Wearing Apparel, Gas Fittings, &c.

MR. LEGGE.—At his Mart, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture, &c.

Police Court.—The sitting magistrates on Saturday were the Police Magistrate and Mr. Chambers. The business was very light, equally unimportant, and the Court rose in about an hour. There were four drunkards, disposed of in the usual manner. On the free list were nine charges: one of desertion of wife and family, and one of absence from hired service, were discharged; a runaway seaman was remanded to the Water Police Court; two for assaults—one fined 10s., and the other, 1s.; one for neglecting his hired service, was sent to gaol for seven days; two persons, taken into custody for protection, being of unsound mind, were sent to gaol in default of sureties for their good behaviour; a female, convicted of indecent language and conduct, was sent to hard labour in gaol for three months as a rogue and vagabond.

The University.—We understand that there is to be a public opening of the University on the 11th October. The examination of students will commence on the 4th, and the matriculation take place on the 11th, at which the Governor-General and the leading members of the community will be present.

Australian Freehold Gold Mining Company.—Mr. Sherwood, principal engineer to this Company, came up on Saturday evening last, in the Esther Arthur from Port Phillip, having re-embarked thence from the Surrey, lately arrived at Melbourne. Mr. Sherwood has brought out ten miners from the Forest of Dean, in Gloucestershire. They will shortly be up from Port Phillip by some of the trading vessels.

A Man found dead.—On Saturday, Mr. Jones, signal-master at the Sydney station, had information from South Head by the telegraph that a man had been found dead in the [illegible] ... in ... d ... the Infirmary on Thursday last. She was suffering from a severe burning. She said that she resided beyond Cook's River, and that in taking a pot of clothes off the fire, her gown accidentally ignited; that she screamed for assistance; but remembered nothing further. She died on Saturday morning. Dr. M'Ewan stated, that deceased was received in the Infirmary on Thursday night; she was labouring under nervous shock from severe and extensive burning. The usual remedies were made use of, but it was a hopeless case. The burning was the cause of death. Verdict, accidental burning.

City Council.—A meeting of this body will be held at the Town Hall to-day, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The paper contains eighteen notices of motion.

Water Police Office.—This court was occupied the greater part of Saturday in the matter of the master of the barque Arabian, against the whole of his coloured crew, who, fifteen in number, refused to proceed to sea, and claimed their discharge. Mr. Nichols conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Roberts the defence. The case was this:—The crew had shipped at Hongkong in April last, for a voyage from Hongkong to Shanghai, thence to Europe, thence to Sydney or the Mauritius, and at one or other of the latter ports to be discharged, should the vessel not return to Hongkong; the period of service not to exceed 18 months. The plea set up was, that the Arabian had not gone to Europe after leaving Shanghai, and that having come direct to Sydney, and the master admitting that he did not intend to take Europe in the trip which he now proposes to make to Hongkong, the terms of the articles had been broken, and that the crew were entitled to their discharge in this port. Mr. Nichols stated that his client did not desire to have the men punished. They had been advised that the articles were invalid, and acting under this notion, they refused to proceed to sea. If the bench decided that the point relied upon by their learned advocate was untenable, and that a voyage to Europe was not compulsory on the part of his client, who desired to return to Hongkong direct, the course which was asked for was, that the crew should be ordered to be put on board again, and directed to return to their duty. The Water Police Magistrate ruled that the alleged deviation in the voyage was immaterial, and that the crew must return to their duty. They were accordingly conducted on board again.

Stealing.—On the 19th inst., a bay mare, heavy in foal, was stolen from the stockyard of Mr. Shields, at Bungonia, in the district of Goulburn, and a black mare left in lieu thereof; on the same night, and probably by the same person, two sets of cart harness and two hames from Mr. Shield's premises at Bungonia. The thief or thieves are supposed to have taken the direction of Goulburn.

Pew Rents.—A case involving a question of much interest was heard in the Court of Requests, Liverpool, on Tuesday last. Dr. Parsons, lately residing at Liverpool, but now practising at Parramatta, was sued by the churchwardens of St. Luke, Liverpool, for £2 8s., being the amount of twelve months' pew rent. At a former sittings of this Court, Dr. Parsons was summoned for the said sum; but as the suit had been instituted in the name of only one of the churchwardens, whilst the Church of England Act, 8 William IV., No. 5, sec. 11, distinctly gives the power of collecting moneys so due to two or more of the churchwardens, the Commissioner then dismissed the case, upon the technical objection urged by Dr. Parsons. A fresh summons was taken out by the churchwardens; and on Tuesday last, the case was again heard. The occupancy of the pew was proved; but Dr. Parsons (whilst he admitted that he had occupied it for three-quarters of a year), contended that the plaintiffs could not legally sue. The 9th section of the Church of England Act enacts that the trustees of every church shall meet in vestry on Easter Tuesday, and shall elect one of their number to act as churchwarden until the Easter Tuesday next ensuing; and at the same time and place the pew-holders and renters of sittings in such church shall elect one of the said pew-holders to act as churchwarden; and the clergyman licensed to officiate in the said church shall at the same time and place nominate one other pew-holder to act as churchwarden. Now, it was admitted by the plaintiffs, that only one trustee was present at the last Easter election of churchwardens for St. Luke's, and Dr. Parsons therefore maintained, that the election was invalid, and that the claim could not be sustained. The Commissioner said, that the objection was fatal, and a verdict was given for the defendant, who applied for costs, which were at once refused.

Purkis and Lambert request public attention to their sales This Day, at the Mart, at 11 o'clock precisely, commencing with boots and shoes, Wilkinson's sheepshears, hollow ware, tinware, table and pocket cutlery. At 12 o'clock, prints, shirt buttons, regatta and white shirts, shirtings &c.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MRS. CHISHOLM AND THE COLONIZATION SOCIETY.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Gentlemen,—Mrs. Chisholm, whose name and whose actions breathe as much immortality as either, is doomed to fall. She whose name is as familiar to every crevice of the United Kingdom as the atmosphere, who has propitiated Earl Grey,—a task no other envoy of the colonies has ever accomplished,—and whom the most enlightened and most excellent men of England have regarded with reverence, is, after all her triumphs, condemned at the unerring tribunal of the judgment of the hon. member for Cook and Westmoreland.

This decision, succeeding so precipitately the presumptuous condemnation of the education of the clergy of the country, fills the minds of thoughtful men with an ineffable sentiment of contempt.

If the exclusively private affairs of the members of public societies are to be scrutinized with the most profound contempt for feeling and courtesy by the Legislature of the country, society will hesitate in the establishment of institutions, however beneficial their object. It is a proceeding in justification of which no precedent can be adduced, no system of reasoning can palliate. The diversion of the consideration of the House from the recommendation of the vote to the society, to the domestic affairs of one of its members, was as infamous in him with whom it originated as it was disgraceful in those by whom it was tolerated. Most fervently it is to be hoped that one day a parliament may arise whose members may boast a chivalry more distinguished, and a sense of justice more solid, than that which it at present appears to possess.

CATHOLICUS.

Macquarie-street.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Gentlemen,—I beg permission to insert a few suggestions in addition to those which have lately appeared in the columns of your paper, for the more effectual working of our Water Police Establishment, and the protection of our shipowners. While the law in its tender care has managed to place in hostile attitude those whom it professes to reconcile, it has opened a splendid "fattening run" to those who live by its ambiguity.

My plan is simply this—let the delinquent be committed to a prison-hulk moored at some distance from the shore. A light-ship at the "Sow and Pigs" might serve a double purpose; ships proceeding to sea could then have their deserters returned on board while under weigh.

The Police Office to be removed to Fort Macquarie, and public-houses prohibited in the neighbourhood thereof.

But as "prevention is better than cure" it is to be hoped that shipmasters taking advantage of the excitement to emigrate to these old regions will ship their men only for the run out; we shall then have hands enough at all times to man our homeward bound ships.

I remain, Gentlemen,

Yours, &c.

September 25. B. E. N.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Gentlemen,—Permit me, through the medium of your valuable journal, to offer a few suggestions for the consideration of the Legislative Council, before whom I believe the report of the Water Police Committee will shortly be brought up. I have read several letters in your papers relative to the water police force at present so inefficient, and I regret the Legislative Council have not made more progress in their measures to ameliorate the condition of the owners and captains of merchant vessels, but trust they will see the necessity of doing something before they adjourn, if not it will be a month added to the difficulties to be undergone by the captains of ships, and during that month there will probably arrive in this harbour more vessels than have ever hitherto in the same space of time. I would suggest that the whole control, judicial and executive, be placed in the hands of the Water Police Magistrate (Mr. Brenan) who, I feel assured, will be most efficient in the discharge of his duties provided a sufficient force be put at his disposal, which force at least should consist of one inspector, two sub-inspectors, and from 40 to 50 men. The inspector and half the men to be stationed at the head Water Police Office about to be built, and a Sub-Inspector with half the remainder, to be stationed at the two other places, at the discretion of the Water Police Magistrate. When I say an Inspector, I do not mean that a person be appointed at the high salary of the Superintendents of the general police force, but that a gentleman be appointed with whom the Water Police Magistrate might consult when necessary, and through whom he might issue his directions, and I feel sure many gentlemen could be got to accept the appointment at about half the salary of the Superintendent's pay (say from £150 to £200 a-year). It might also be considered advisable to make the Inspector a magistrate, so that when requisite he might sit on the bench with the Water Police Magistrate. I forbear saying anything as to the increase which is absolutely necessary in the pay of the men, as I feel certain, from several statements by honourable members in the Council, that every thing necessary in that way will be done. Fearing my yarn is already too long,

I remain, gentlemen, yours, &c.,

"One of the Ill-protected Captains."

September 24.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Gentlemen.—As the supply of the labour market of this colony engages at present so much the public mind, I venture to think that any writer on the subject of immigration may find in this attention an apology for the expression of his opinions, and it is upon this ground that I now trespass upon your time and space.

Any one extensively acquainted, and by calling brought into constant and close contact with the industrial classes at home, might look upon their condition as most deplorable—their privations intense. I am well acquainted with the condition of the agricultural labourer and the mechanic, also with that of the weaver, spinner, and printer, and especially during periods of distress and commercial depression. It is lamentable to see the crowded state of our large and populous towns. Every circumstance tending to reduce, and might I not say to destroy! the moral, intellectual, and physical capacities of men. This is not so bad in the agricultural districts. But their destitution is bitter as great. Let me suppose you to be standing at the squire's lodge gate, or in the pretty parsonage garden, and you ask the labourer what wages he is getting, he will tell you 8s. per week; he has six children, a wife, and himself to support out of this wretched pittance, and high rent to pay for a miserable cottage. It is only lately that some few large landed proprietors have commenced building cottages to improve the physical condition of the labouring population. What may his meal be after a hard day's work? will it be a good wholesome damper, with plenty of good meat and tea, as the shepherd in Australia? No. Those who may peruse these remarks probably know equally with myself that, after a scanty dinner, his supper consists of potatoes, and a flour dumpling of the size and consistency of a cannon ball, greased over with bacon-fat. He does indeed live hard and wretchedly, and the scanty subsistence he can eke out in Bedfordshire, or Dorsetshire, he obtains after great competition in the labour market. And unless he brings a good article into the labour market, he will get no employer. He must go into the workhouse. The competition for employment is so great at present in England, that the able-bodied men can get no work, and when they do, getting scarcely what will keep body and soul together. That these reflections are truths no one, I conceive, will contradict. The depressed condition of the agricultural labourer is admitted by all, though they may differ as to its cause. Now the remedy, I say, is, send them to Australia. Teach them and assist them to practise the late Sir R. Peel's commercial maxim, "Sell in the dearest market and buy in the cheapest." It is this class of labourers I should like to see introduced into this colony—the athletic, able-bodied peasant, who leaves home, not that he may relieve his parish, or get out of the union workhouse. But I am bold to say the best means of persuading him, on the part of the colonists, are not used. It is a difficult matter to persuade a countryman to leave his home for a far distant country, who may have never been five miles from his parish, and that upon an ocean which, may be, he has never seen. What I conceive to be the best mode of persuasion I will, on some further occasion, point out; but I will suppose his objections to the voyage, and separation from his friends, overcome. How is he to get to Australia? Where is the capitation fee to come from—the money for outfit,—for passage to points of embarkation? How came he to get the means? He owes little at the "shop," where he has paid dearer for his excisable articles than the great millionaire to whom an ortolan or the most rechérché dish of an artiste like Soyer or Ude are no delicacy. This debt has to be paid. The only convertible property he possesses is a chest of drawers, an 8 day clock, bed and bedding—and perhaps a large silver watch. This is the only convertible property worth anything a labourer has. It is partly upon this and his personal character that he gets credit. After that debt has been discharged, the surplus is not sufficient to meet the necessary requisites for a long sea voyage. He obtains a little help from the Squire, from the Parson—the Farmer—perhaps from the board, but not necessarily so, as persons of this description are not troublesome to them. It is by these means that the best kind of labour has hitherto removed itself from the surfeited market of England to the Australian market, where there is a greater demand than supply.

If you would employ the proper means to ensure this class of labour, I think, indeed I feel convinced, you would introduce into this colony, just that which the farmer and squatter require, and even to the full amount of your wants. You need not then look to Chinamen, to a Eurasian caste, or to Coolies, to tend your sheep, to plant your cotton, to gather your coffee, or cut your sugar-cane, or prune your vines.

I will conclude this present letter, by saying that for the personal comfort, moral safety, and intellectual improvement of the immigrants, all should be sent out through the Colonial Land and Emigration Board. And this I think because the regulations laid down by that board are stringently enforced, under penalties. And my experience and observation are, that the authority with which the board is invested, and which does not belong to any private association, however well organised, is necessary for the welfare of immigrants.

I have the pleasure to be, yours,

H. R. J.

SOCIAL EFFECT OF THE GOLD DISCOVERIES.

(From a Lecture by Alison, on the Influence of Christianity on Human Happiness.)

There is another consideration of equal importance, but which may not be equally obvious. If there had been no addition made to the metallic treasures of the world at that time [the Reformation and the discovery of America] all the effort that took place, and all the addition to population, could have terminated in nothing but disaster, and a constant and positive increase of human suffering. The proper way to show what has been done for us, is to suppose that what has occurred had not been done. Suppose, at the period of the discovery of America, no gold and silver mines of surpassing fertility had been discovered; that the world, increasing rapidly in number, increasing rapidly in commercial transactions, with new fields of industry opened, new hemispheres arising both in the Western and in the Eastern Oceans, had been compelled to go on, with no addition to the metallic treasures with which the transactions of mankind were to be carried on. What would have been the result? Why, that all the efforts of industry, all the increase of population, all that every man did to better his condition, would only have rendered that condition worse, because all the articles of life, in which every man dealt, would have been continually falling in price. [illegible] the precious metals remained the same, while the populations and the transactions of the civilised part of the world were doubling every fifty years, the price of every article would be continually falling, the wages of labour would always be getting less, buyers and sellers would be every day getting poorer; and the greater the increase of energy, and the greater the efforts made, the greater would be the suffering produced among mankind. But observe what Providence did when the Atlantic yielded to the genius of Columbus; when it gave us the magnet; when it opened the wilds of America. It gave mankind, at the same time, the mines of Potosi and Mexico; it quadrupled at once the metallic treasures of the earth. In the new regions, to which the race of Japhet was now extending, were found mineral treasures sufficient to render any possible increase consistent with social prosperity. Great as was the increase of industry, and the increase in the transactions of men, greater still was the increase of metallic treasure poured out to form the medium of universal communication, and avert what otherwise must have induced a constant and ruinous fall of prices. It is a most extraordinary fact that, within a century after the discovery of America, although the progress of society was so rapid, although there never had been a time when population increased so quickly, and transactions were so much multiplied, and industry so much increased, yet the prices of everything went on augmenting in a still greater proportion, insomuch that within a century they were quadrupled. And consider what is the effect upon all persons who deal in industry, who deal in commodities, of a great rise of prices. What is the inevitable result of a constant fall of prices? Is it not universal misery? If every article every man deals in is always getting cheaper, I would ask what that man's profits will be at the end of the year? And if all the articles a nation deals in are always falling in price, what sort of a balance sheet will that nation strike at the end of 10 years? But when the vast increase of metallic treasures kept pace with the growth of man, then the sources of human happiness advanced abreast of the sources of human improvement, and mankind went on at the same time increasing in knowledge, increasing in numbers, increasing in industry, increasing the spread of Christianity, and increasing also in the sum of human happiness."

This is followed by a parallel between the period of the Reformation and the present day, in the course of which the learned historian proceeds as follows:—

"There is another consideration, which is the last I shall point out, which does appear to be of surpassing importance. You see what an impulse has been given to the Christian religion, what a prodigious change has been wrought by the results of the French Revolution. You see what a spirit of energy and activity, and of desire for self-government has arisen in modern Europe, in consequence of the changes of which we have been witnesses or partakers. Attend then, as we attended before, to what would have been the fate of mankind if no addition to the metallic treasures of the earth had taken place at the same time. Suppose, with Russia doubling her sixty-six millions every fifty years; America, with her twenty-five millions doubling every twenty years; and the transactions of the world increasing so rapidly, in consequence of the discovery of steam, and of greater and more pacific intercourse of mankind with each other;—what would have been their state if there had been no addition, simultaneously made, to the metallic treasures of the earth? Ten millions a year, before 1810, was the whole amount furnished by all the mines in the world, for carrying on the transactions of mankind. If we had gone on to the end of the world, with these ten millions of gold and silver, and no more, the result would have been, that everything would be constantly getting cheaper, every man's income would be getting less, every man at the end of the year would be poorer than he was at the beginning; and every nation at the end of ten years would be poorer than it was at the commencement. The vast efforts of human industry, the increase of numbers, and the spread of Christianity, would have been attended with a grinding and fatal effect upon the progress of human happiness.

"But it was not thus ordered by Providence. There was a country in America which the Spaniards had three hundred years in their possession. Gold was under their feet only a few feet down: but the lazy Castilian, with his Roman Catholic religion, and his indolent habits, never found it out. But when the Americans came there, when the Anglo-Saxon got his foot upon the soil, in less than three months the gold mines were discovered, and the destinies of the world were changed. The reserves were opened. At the moment when steam navigation was giving the means of indefinite communication between the old and new world—at the moment when four or five hundred thousand emigrants were landing annually in America from European shores—at the moment when that great country was taking an unprecedented start in energy, activity, and power—at that moment California was conquered by the Americans, and the gold mines were discovered. Though they had been worked only three years, the sum raised by them amounts to twenty-five millions sterling—an increase of 250 per cent. upon the whole of the gold and silver mines in the world before that time. Other mines have been discovered in Australia. We do not know what their value is, but they will undoubtedly make a great addition to the mines already opened in the Ural and in the Altai mountains. Therefore, you see there has been a reserve of Providence which has been kept up for the appointed time. The silver treasury was opened at the date of the reformation, when the first great start was given to mankind and the first great impulse communicated to the spread of Christianity. The gold treasury has been opened in our own time, when a start has been given, greater in extent, more durable in effect, more lasting in progress. There is no danger of things being unduly cheapened now. The greatest possible increase of the human race is quite consistent with human happiness; because the metallic treasures that have been discovered are so large, that there will be plenty of money for additional numbers, however much they increase: and that dreadful circumstance, a perpetual fall in prices attending the efforts of industry, will be for ever removed. If you duly weigh those circumstances, you will see the hand of Providence is as clearly marked in these different stages, and in the progress of Christianity in modern times, in the different periods at which these advantages were given, and these means afforded to mankind, as if you heard the voice of an angel speaking from the clouds."

THE OFFICIAL MACHINERY OF EMIGRATION.

(From the Spectator, May 29.)

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON'S admissions and promises to the Yorkshire deputation, last week, are the most emphatic condemnation which his department has yet received for its conduct up to this point. He told the deputation, explicitly, that the Australian Governors have not said anything having a tendency to create the impression that emigration was not necessary; Lord Derby having told the same gentlemen, only two days earlier, that Mr. Latrobe preferred to have emigrants "gradually," and so far confirming the "impression" previously created, that the Australians by no means laboured under the haste which was ascribed to them. Whether the requisite amount of emigration be possible or not, whether it be English or Chinese, the effect of Sir John Pakington's frank avowal would be appreciated by those gentlemen who had heard Lord Derby's previous declaration, and who had been subjected to the "impression" repudiated by Sir John. The public has been amused with a ceaseless [illegible] of the figures said to represent the sums in the hands of the Emigration Commissioners: our readers will remember that we have previously calculated the gross amount as probably approaching £200,000. The sum of £160,000 has recently been sent from Port Phillip; and, although some of the original sum must since have been spent in emigration, Sir John now admits that the gross sum in hand is £318,000. Sir John now admits that there will be no difficulty in finding emigrants, nor in finding ships, for a sudden deportation; and yet, for months past, emigration—the gradual steady emigration that might have mitigated the crisis—has been checked, or in some cases suspended altogether. It has been suspended to Sydney since the commencement of the winter.

The case of Sydney is peculiarly bad. Sir John Pakington confesses to having in hand, of Sydney funds, more than £70,000; though we strongly suspect that the people of Sydney would reckon the sum to be higher. That money has been lying idle for the last six months, in the face of the grievous complaints of the Sydney people. But what will the English reader say when he learns that this money—at least the greater part of it, but we believe the whole—is the produce of a loan, for which the inhabitants of New South Wales have been paying interest all this time!

The difficulty now alleged by Sir John Pakington is that of procuring ships: but there is reason to believe that this difficulty might be overcome, like the rest. If not, we might still more justly call the Government to account for having got into the scrape in which such vast interests are so destructively involved. But there are reasons for thinking that any department of ordinary capacity would find this difficulty disappear at the first move. Heretofore the official ports have been London and Plymouth; and if a few ships have been chartered at Liverpool, that is the extent of the departure from the routine. Perhaps if the Emigration Commissioners inquire elsewhere, they will discover that there are such things as ships at Glasgow, Hull, Leith, Bristol, and other ports. At least they cannot tell till they try.

But down to last week, the Colonial Department was going upon the plan of stinting the Australian funds, accepting emigrants only on the most picksome rules, limiting its shipping to certain ports—in short, dealing with emigration as a thing to be systematically checked. Within a month, Sir John Pakington himself talked as if Government had not yet advanced any further than to send out a few troops, and to "communicate" with the Commissioners on the subject of sending out some weavers. Now there must be some practical reason why all these elements of a great colonizing power, opportunity, and necessity, are rendered of none effect; and assuredly we must seek the reason in the part where the pinch lies. It lies in the Emigration Office.

Of what does that office consist? Of three Commissioners, a Secretary, various subordinate officers, and certain "selecting agents." When the old South Australian Commission was merged in the Colonial Land and Emigration Commission, which in part adopted the old South Australian policy, the old representatives of that policy, from divers reasons, left the scene; and they were replaced by new men. The Chief Commissioner now is Mr. Murdoch, formerly a clerk in the Colonial Office, and only known in connexion with that office. The report of Sir John Pakington's manner is very favourable, for its air of ingenuousness and zeal: of Mr. Murdoch's demeanour the report is not so favourable—his virtues appear to the colonist or deputationist to be reserve, and the due observance of Talleyrand's precept touching zeal. Mr. Rogers was a law-officer, for whom the Colonial Office no longer found employment, and who is billeted on the Commission. Of the third Commissioner, Mr. Wood, the report is, that he is courteous, cordial, and seems inclined to action; but of him we hear little. The Secretary is a man of much ability, and of old official habits. The rest of the force is concealed from public view, until its neither end appears again in the shape of the selecting agents. Formerly this portion was of a very miscellaneous character; but latterly the civil servants have been replaced by soldiers—officers and non-commissioned officers; of whom the public idea is, that they do not handle emigration affairs so ably as a musket, and that they are not the best of judges in regard to agricultural or handicraft capacity in the men, nor endowed with the best of experience in the selection of women. Such is the Commission. Somehow it makes no way; and, on the principle that "where there's a will there's a way," it is suspected of having no good will at the work. Or if it has a will, then its strength must be lamentably below the scale of its duties. Anyhow, in that peculiar excrescence on the Colonial Office lies the pinch that obstructs, and has so long obstructed emigration; and if the nature of that pinch is to be understood, inquiry should be made into the Commission itself. A public department has broken down, with frightful injury to Colonial and Imperial interests; and if we are to avoid a continuance and renewal of that injury, there is the point for investigation.

UNAVOIDABLE POSTPONEMENT OF SALE,

CAPITAL BUILDING ALLOTMENTS on the Marylebone Estate, Surry Hills, just off Crown-street.

MR. MORT will sell by public auction, on FRIDAY, October 1st, at 11 o'clock, (instead of Friday, September 24, as previously advertised),

Twelve allotments of Land, situate on the Marylebone Estate, Surry Hills, having frontage to the several streets as specified below.

LOT 1.

A corner allotment with frontage to three streets 81 feet to Lansdowne-street, and 28 feet 6 in. each to Frederick and High Holborn streets.

LOTS 2, 3, 4, and 5.

Each having frontages to Frederick and High Holborn streets, respectively, of 27 feet, with a depth of 81 feet.

LOT 6.

A corner allotment, with frontage to three streets—81 feet to Miles-street, and 28 feet 6 in. each to Frederick and High Holborn streets.

LOT 7.

A corner allotment, with frontages to Miles, Marlborough, and Frederick streets, to the former, of 81 feet, and the two latter, 28½ feet each, and separated from Lot 6 by Frederick-street. LOTS 8, 9, 10, 11,

All have frontages of 27 feet to Frederick and Marlborough streets, with a depth of 81 feet.

LOT 12.

A corner allotment, having a frontage to three streets: to Lansdowne-street, 81 feet, and to Marlborough and Frederick streets, 28½ feet; a corresponding lot to Lot 1.

These allotments are in a populous and improving part of the city, and highly advantageous for building sites.

As the Sale is an unreserved one, those who are alive to the rapid advance which must take place in land located so advantageously as this is, will do well to attend on the 24th instant.

TERMS: one-fourth cash on the fall of the hammer, and the residue by approved bills at six months. 7418

FORTY ACRE FARM, EMU PLAINS.

MR. MORT will sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, October 18, at 11 o'clock,

A capital Farm, in the village of Emu, Emu Plains, adjoining the allotments of Messrs. Lawson, Kite, and Smith, immediately contiguous to the village reserve, through which the Bathurst Road runs. The description is as follows:—

"Forty acres, two roods, thirty-two perches of land, situated in the county of Cook, parish unnamed, allotment No. 2, at Emu, bounded on the north by a fence bearing south sixty-one degrees east, twenty-two chains forty-seven links to the road; on the east by the road bearing south thirty degrees, west twenty-one chains, eighty-three links; on the south by a fence bearing north sixty-two degrees west twenty-two chains, forty-two links; and on the west by a fence bearing north thirty degrees east twenty-one chains ninety links, being the land sold as lot 2, in pursuance of the advertisement of 5th December, 1832."

☞ The locality of this farm, being so short a distance from the town of Penrith, possesses undoubted advantages, and the auctioneer's instructions being to sell, parties will do well to attend this sale.

Plan may be seen at Mr. Mort's auction rooms.

Terms at sale. 6877

Terms at sale. 6656

WINGELLO ESTATE.

Situate in the Counties of Camden and Argyle, Together with about 5000 Sheep

Important to Capitalists, Families, and Others.

MR. MORT has received positive instructions from the proprietor to submit to public competition on MONDAY, 11th October, at his New Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney.

All that important and highly improved Freehold Estate, known as

WINGELLO PARK,

Lying and situate in the counties of Camden and Argyle, on the main South Road from Sydney (via Goulburn and Yass) to Port Phillip, South Australia, &c. It contains, in the first place, 2240 acres of land, by grants from the Crown, so judiciously chosen that each have frontages to the Uringalla chain of ponds (which form the boundaries of the counties of Camden and Argyle), the Wollondilly and Patrick's rivers, and other streams; and secondly, of 4800 acres adjoining, leased from the Crown by pre-emptive right, making the aggregate contents of this estate upwards of seven thousand acres, besides the run of a most extensive common reserve which surrounds very much of the grant.

THE HOMESTEAD

Contains about 580 acres, enclosed by 4½ miles of a ring fence, and subdivided into 10 paddocks, embracing upwards of 4 miles of fencing, exclusive of the above, 3 of which are under culture; and the rest have been so laid out that the Uringalla ponds are in each of them, and which have at all seasons a bountiful supply of pure fresh water, and are naturally ornamental in appearance, as they are so extensive that on many of them a 74 might float.

WINGELLO RESIDENCE.

Consists of an excellent Cottage Orneé, 92 feet 6 inches long, by 41 feet 6 inches broad, including a spacious verandah 8 feet by 6 inches wide, the entire length of the frontage of the building facing the lawn and garden. It contains eleven good rooms, adapted for every domestic and other use, besides a lobby and passage.

THE GARDEN AND ORCHARD

Contain about 1½ acres, and are tastefully and judiciously laid out with choice fruit trees, such as apple, pear, cherry, plum, &c.; gooseberry, currant, and raspberry bushes, vines, &c., and has in it a GARDENER'S HOUSE.

In the rear is detached kitchen, pantry, and storeroom, stable and coach-house, harness and tool-room, carpenter's shop, servants' cottages, fowl-house, poultry yards, piggery, sheds for carts, &c. THE BARN is a cut ashler stone shingled building, standing on a slight eminence about 500 feet from the house, being 88 feet long by 34 feet 6 inches wide from out to out, and 14 feet high to the eaves. It was built in the year 1847, consequently nearly new. It is partitioned off into four apartments, consisting of a thrashing floor, a storeroom, a granary, and a sheep-shearing-room, with double-battened floor, opening to two sheep-yards on one side, and on the other to a first-rate patent modern iron screw Wool Press fixed for working. Around this building are stack and barn yards, milking, stock, and slaughter-yards, &c.

In what is termed the mail paddock (so named from the daily transit of the Sydney Royal Mail,) there are sheep pens and yards 211 feet long by 90 feet broad, and at the entrance-gate of the estate is the late Mounted Police Station, consisting of a logged and shingled stable 55 by 24 feet, cottages, garden, &c.

Sheep stations are judiciously formed on other parts of this estate, and on a 1000 acre grant named Dunmore, situate on the bank of the Wollondilly River, opposite Arthursleigh, or Eden Forest, distant about four miles from the homestead is abundance of the celebrated Argyle marble, (which in beauty is not excelled in any part of the world,) limestone, slate, &c.; and COPPER ORE has been dug therefrom, as this portion of the property lies only about seven miles distant in the meridian line of Major Lockyer's copper mine.

To capitalists and gentlemen of family this very complete and ready-made estate is particularly recommended, being in the first place complete for an immediate comfortable and spacious residence, with every domestic convenience attached thereto; and, secondly, the rich quality of the soil renders it fit for agricultural and dairy purposes, sheep and cattle breeding, grazing, &c.,

THERE BEING RUN FOR 8000 SHEEP;

and its small distance from the capital enhances materially its capability for agriculture. Its situation is also very healthy and salubrious, and the general character of the country it embraces is so much like a gentleman's park in England, that persons residing thereon would consider themselves perfectly at home.

Another desideratum which must not be lost sight of, is offered in the advantages attendant upon the close proximity of the Railway, which will enable the proprietor to bring to market the beautiful marbles and precious minerals with which it is well kgown the estate abounds, and to land the result of his pastoral and agricultural pursuits at a very trifling cost in the chief market in the colony—the emporium of the southern seas.

☞ The Sheep will be found of very superior quality, being very good woolled, and in sound, healthy condition.

A quantity of wheat, stores, implements, working bullocks, dray, &c., &c., to be taken at a valuation.

Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the estate—the plans of which may be seen, and terms learnt, at the Rooms of the Auctioneer. 4570

THE KING CATTLE,

Consisting of 2000 head, more or less, running on Booleroo Station, Gwyder River.

MR. MORT is instructed by J. M. SAUNDERS, Esq., Manager of the Bank of Australasia, Maitland, to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, to close an account, on TUESDAY, October 26, at 11 o'clock.

2000 head, more or less, of the above well-known breed, which will be delivered on the Wilbon Station, being the one adjoining to that upon which they are now running.

☞ The breed of these cattle is good, and as there have been only 200 head of fat cattle removed during the past season, the purchaser will doubtless be able to make a good selection for slaughter upon taking delivery.

All unbranded cattle will be given in, together with right of brand, after day of final delivery.

Terms, 25 per cent. cash deposit; residue by approved bills, at six and twelve months' date, bearing bank interest. 7131

AUSTRALIAN AGRICULTURAL COMPANY.

At Newcastle, on TUESDAY, January 4th, will be offered for sale by public auction, at the Office of the Company, in that city, by MR. ALEXANDER DODDS, Auctioneer,

SUNDRY BUILDING ALLOTMENTS, of a quarter of an acre each.

At the same time portions of Land will be offered for lease attached to the building Allotments, varying from one to ten acres, well adapted for gardening and other purposes, with an abundant supply of excellent water.

For plans and information apply at the A.A. Company's Office, Newcastle; to Mr. Dodds, Auctioneer, Maitland; or to Mr. Darby, Surveyor to the Company, Booral, Port Stephens.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL ESTATES. LEASES FOR SEVEN, FOURTEEN, AND TWENTY-ONE YEARS.

ON Tuesday, the 28th September next, the following lands, belonging to the Church and School Estates, will be put up to public auction at the Court of Requests, Sydney, at noon precisely.

The following is the plan upon which the land will be offered for public competition.

A lease will be granted for 21 years, the tenants having the option to determine it at the expiration of the first or second term of 7 years. The rental of the second and third terms will be successively increased by half the amount of the annual rent of the first term, viz., in the the following ratio, 4, 6, 8.

The lease will not contain any clause to prevent underletting, but the undertenant will in no way be recognized by the Government; and the original lessee, unless a transfer be formally executed by the Agent, will be held responsible for the due payment of the rent.

The usual reservations as to making roads, constructing bridges, &c., will be introduced, but the reservation will not extend to timber, which the tenant will be allowed to cut.

The rent for the first year must be paid on the day of sale; after which period the rent will be payable in advance, yearly, when the amount is below thirty pounds, and half-yearly, when the rent is not less than that sum.

Any land, not bid for at the day of sale, will be open to selection by private contract, at the upset price. Lithographed plans and further particulars may be obtained on application to the Agent.

Leases to date from 1st October, 1852.

JOHN STIRLING.
Agent for Church and School Estates.
Church and School Estates, Office,
Bent-street, Sydney, 27th August, 1852.

PARRAMATTA.

MR. J. F. STAFF has received instructions from Major M'Pherson (who is retiring to another part of the colony) to sell by auction, at his residence, opposite the Steam Mills of Messrs. J. and W. Byrnes, on TUESDAY, the 28th instant, at 11 o'clock,

Household Furniture, consisting of—couches, drawing, dining, and bedroom chairs, a square pianoforte, by Broadwood, tables, chest drawers, chiffonier, sideboard, fenders and irons, clothes press, bedsteads, rocking chair, plate, breakfast, dinner, and tea services, kitchen utensils, dish covers, large meat safe (very superior), Gravely stove, Norfolk Island dripstone, one portable turning lathe

One good draft and saddle horse, phaeton and harness

Wood dray, water cart and harness
A boat (waterman's size) and six oars
Spring cart, horse, and harness
A pair of handsome Manila poodle dogs, male and female

Also,

Ten milking cows and six springers, with numerous other lots.

Terms, cash. [illegible]

TO BE SOLD by public auction, at Gundagai, (if not previously disposed of by private contract) three first rate allotments of land, situate far beyond the reach of the highest flood, on one of which is erected a comfortable Dwelling House and Brewery, with malting house, kiln, capacious cellar, tubs, vats, and all the necessary utensils for carrying on a brewery.

In the Dwelling House (to be sold with the above) is a quantity of excellent furniture and kitchen utensils, sufficient for furnishing a public house. A never-failing well of water, 50 feet deep, has been dug on one of the allotments, and an excellent garden is attached to the Dwelling House, forming altogether an excellent investment for a small capital.

Terms, 20 per cent. cash deposit on the fall of the hammer, the residue in approved bills, at 3, 6, and 9 months. Further particulars can be had on application to B. M. TRESSIDER, Auctioneer, Gundagai.

N.B.—The allotments are close to the public ferry, and the high road to Port Phillip runs past the foot of them.

TO STAND, at Parkhall, near Appin, the imported Arab stallion

ALBUERA.

Terms—£2 10s. each mare.

TO TRAVEL, the entire Horse YOUNG HORNCASTLE. The above Horse, a sure foal getter, three years old, will Travel this season from Mittagong to Berrima, Sutton Forest, and the Cross Roads.

Single Mare, £1 2s. 6d.

Payments to be made to Mr. WILLIAM WAITE, Mittagong, on or before the 1st January, 1853.
